Becker's Hospital Review has named the 65 great community hospitals, presented in alphabetical order. Note: These hospitals include fewer than 550 patient beds and have minimal teaching programs. Hospitals appearing on America's 50 Best Hospitals are not featured on this list.

Sacred Heart Hospital (Eau Claire, Wis.). Sacred Heart is a 344-bed hospital that provides an extensive array of services to residents of western Wisconsin. The hospital was founded in 1889 by two Hospital Sisters of Saint Francis. According to Press Ganey, Sacred Heart consistently ranks within the top 1 percent in the nation for inpatient satisfaction. The hospital has earned the American Stroke Association's Gold Performance Achievement award for high standards of stroke care. It is considered a leader in environmental healthcare, earning the several awards from organizations that advocate environmentally sustainable healthcare.
